Culturally Competent Communication

In the Deaf and Hard of Hearing community, there are often differences in preferred modes of communication, attitudes toward hearing loss, life experiences, and education. All of these components impact attitudes towards and understanding of substance use disorders and mental health needs. We respect the unique needs of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing community and provide services, including communication access, that are both effective and culturally sensitive to the diverse needs of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing population.

Bringing Services To You

Our licensed and certified mental health professionals provide services both in-person and through video technology to ensure that everyone has access to needed services:

- When face-to-face services are not possible or feasible, we use HIPAA-compliant Polycom video equipment to provide a secure and stable audio-visual transmission between service-users and therapists.
- At RHA Behavioral Health Program for the Deaf and the Hard of Hearing, we contract with the State of North Carolina to serve all 100 counties in the state.
